

Two hunted things, one road, and a war that ends at a crown neither of them wanted.

She was born to be a secret. The world is about to make her a war.

Amelia has never been allowed outside. The first vampire born—not made—in a thousand years, she is her mother the Queen’s cherished, forbidden secret: a girl with blood magyk that should not exist, kept behind a bolt because her very existence could shatter the treaty that holds three peoples apart. She wants one thing the world will never grant her—to be seen.

Then a grief-poisoned schemer unveils her before both courts, and the war begins.

On the run at last, Amelia crosses paths with Korvan, the shifter chief’s outcast son—a late shifter whose first change makes him the one creature more hunted than she is: a dragon out of dead legend, a clan of one. Thrown together on a brutal road with the war closing behind them, two exiles learn each other. But the bond they choose is not fated, and being finally seen will cost Amelia everything she loves.

A dark, adult romantasy of dangerous devotion, chosen love, and the terrible price of the truth.

For readers of Carissa Broadbent, Danielle L. Jensen, and Anne Bishop.

ISBN barcode area

A BOND OF SCALE AND SILVER

Post Peleios

